Digital cameras The cost of digital photography has come down dramatically; high-quality digital point-and-shoot cameras now cost only about $150. With this type of camera, you see the image on the camera's viewfinder and press the button to take the picture. * Consumer cameras: Digital cameras are the basic building block of a growing array of photographic and imaging devices. More compact than film, they are also smaller than a typical computer hard drive and offer several advantages. * Flash memory: Can be used for computer hard drives * Ease of operation * Portable and convenient * Can be recorded onto SD cards, which are inexpensive and convenient With the widespread development of multimedia Web sites and technology's impact on art and design, photographers are increasingly looking at more than a simple snapshot. Instead, they are starting to think about the use of digital photography and the best way to display and present the images they create.

Q: Undo a line After the missing period, I want to delete the next period (it was accidentally pressed after) and get back into the paragraph. Any thoughts? A: Try this Ctrl + Y A: Alt + Backspace A: There are a few ways to get back to the paragraph: Ctrl+Z, this undoes the last action. Shift+Alt+Backspace (useful when you accidentally delete a portion of a paragraph). Right click on the unwanted line and select "Cut". After selecting the "Cut" button, you can add back the portion you cut. A right click on the line, and select "Paste" (it will use the last action applied).

Shift+Ctrl+Alt+A. Also, as @almonji said, you can undo the last paragraph. A simple and rapid colorimetric test for human immunodeficiency virus antibodies. The ELISA (enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay) is widely used for the detection of antibodies to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). However, many laboratories have no ELISA. We describe a new, rapid, easily performed ELISA system, using a soluble, biotin-streptavidin sandwich combination. We tested 510 serum samples for antibody to HIV type I and type II by this method and the ELISA recommended by the World Health Organization. The two tests gave concordant results in 471 samples. Comparison of the two tests also showed positive correlation between the two tests for the absorbance ratios for HIV type I and type II in the ELISA. The new test has proven to be as sensitive and specific as the WHO ELISA and should be of value in laboratories without ELISA. Henry Patterson (politician) Henry A. Patterson (November 11, 1815 – January 1, 1883) was a member of the Wisconsin State Assembly. Biography Patterson was born on November 11, 1815 in Thetford, Norfolk, England. He moved to Hancock County, Wisconsin in 1848. During the American Civil War, he served with the 38th Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry Regiment of the Union Army and attained the rank of colonel. Political career Patterson was a member of the Assembly during the 1875 session. Other positions held include member of the board of supervisors of Hancock County, Wisconsin and member
